

The 6th Baltic Sea Region Cultural Heritage Forum

Invitation – Save-the-dates

From Postwar to Postmodern – 20th Century Built Cultural Heritage
28–30 September 2016 in Kiel, Germany

The conference From Postwar to Postmodern – 20th Century Built Cultural Heritage is arranged within the framework of the 6th Baltic Sea Region Cultural Heritage Forum. The aim of this conference is to raise awareness of the built cultural heritage of the postwar and postmodern period in the Baltic Sea region.

The conference addresses the historical legacy of postwar twentieth century architecture in the context of the Baltic Sea region and the different values that are ascribed to the architecture of this period through the end of the twentieth century. Of main interest are also the problems of how awareness of the challenges involved in preserving and maintaining postwar twentieth century architecture and cultural heritage can be raised. An equally important challenge is how this can be presented to various decision makers and professionals in the field.

The target audience of this conference includes experts from the cultural heritage sector, architects, planners, researchers, municipalities, regional councils, the Baltic Sea States Subregional Cooperation along with other stakeholders and other related professions.

The organizer of this conference is the Monitoring Group on Cultural Heritage in the Baltic Sea states (MG), which is a network for the Cultural Heritage co-operation in the Baltic Sea States, initiated by the Ministers of Culture. It has been functioning since 1998 with representatives from the national heritage agencies in the Baltic Sea states. The Archäologisches Landesamt Schleswig-Holstein in Germany and the Swedish National Heritage Board (Riksantikvarieämbetet) share the practical preparations for this conference, in close alliance with the MG, which is the overall coordinator and steering group for The 6th Baltic Sea Region Cultural Heritage Forum.

The conference will be held at Audimax, University of Kiel, on 28–29 September, 2016. In addition, an excursion will be held on 30 September.

Please forward this information to all who may be concerned.

For more information on this conference and for registration later on this spring please visit the conference website: <http://www.kiel-heritage-forum-2016.eu/>

Welcome!